

HOME FOR HOMELESS

Philanthropist to Build Orphan's Home in Klamath Falls

Dr. Otto E. Hornady, formerly of Roseburg, Announces at Petersburg, Indiana, That He Will Establish Home for Children Upon His Return to Oregon

If the story in an Indiana newspaper is true then Klamath Falls will have an orphan's home in the near future. While Dr. Otto E. Hornady, was visiting at Petersburg, Ind., he gave out the statement that it was his intention to come to Oregon to locate at Klamath Falls where he would establish a home for the homeless children and devote his time and wealth to the institution. The Pike County Democrat published in the Indiana city has the following to say of Dr. Hornady:

"Dr. Otto E. Hornady, who has been visiting here for several weeks and who is greatly interested in orphan children, decided to give those at Thornton's home a treat. He prepared thirty-six packages, filled two large baskets with such choice goods as bananas, peaches, figs, nuts, apples, etc., and these were carried to the home and after delivering to the children a very pleasing and instructive address, each child was presented with a package. Each one of the children then shook hands with the doctor and it is needless to say that they were a very happy family. Dr. Hornady left Monday for Arkansas where he will hold a two weeks' camp meeting before returning to his home at Roseburg, Oregon.

"From his meetings in Arkansas he will return to his home in Oregon where he has not been for nearly eight years. He expects to devote the remainder of his life to the establishment of a home and school for orphan children in Oregon. He will move to the town of Klamath Falls in that state shortly and he expects to leave his property to the home he will establish. Dr. Hornady has never lost his love for the pleasant and healthful sport of fishing, and most of the days here he has gone to White river, Clark's station or the ditch fishing."

Dr. Hornady is now past eighty-two years of age and he has devoted most of his life to work among the Indians of the West and among the heathen of other nations. He has traveled very extensively and is said to be a man of considerable means. If it is his intention to come to Klamath Falls to establish an orphan's home his undertaking will receive the hearty co-operation of the people of this city.

WOULDN'T IT JAR YOU?

It Will Doubtless Jar Harriman If He Happens to See It.

Klamath has received many hard raps, but probably one of the hardest that it has received was a dispatch sent from Tacoma, Wash., to the San Francisco Chronicle. It is very evident that the newspaper correspondent who sent in the dispatch was the victim of a huge joke as was also the newspaper that printed it. The clipping was sent to this office with the words "Wouldn't it jar you?" written at the head of it and, we must confess, it did jar us and it is very probable that it will jar others who know something about Klamath and about Mr. Harriman. The dispatch follows:

Special Dispatch to the Chronicle. TACOMA (Wash.), July 31.—The proprietor of the only hotel at Klamath Falls, Or., last week received a telegram from E. H. Harriman, telling him that Harriman's party would arrive there in a few days. His accommodations being limited, the hotel keeper went to Medford and other towns, where parties were made up to help entertain Oregon's distinguished visitor. Medford raised $500.

Harriman's party is to be presented with every possible variety of Oregon products and fruits. Committees from Coos Bay, Portland, Eastern Oregon and other communities will journey to Klamath Falls to inquire when Oregon railroads now under construction will be finished and when projected roads will be begun.

"IF YOU PLEASE"

On land and seas it has been declared to be a passport fair most everywhere. But not so good as a ticket to the comic opera Pinafore at the opera house next Tuesday and Wednesday nights. Come and hear the great monarch of the seas exemplify this "if you please" in his own unique way.

Want Farmers to Construct Canals

The Board of Directors of the Klamath Water Users association is planning the establishment of a system for the construction of portions of the irrigation project by the landowners under the canal. Some time ago the matter of the association owning contractor was considered, but this plan was found impractical and abandoned. The system now under consideration is for the association and the Reclamation Service to enter an agreement whereby the former will be permitted to advertise for bids on certain portions of the canals or laterals and instead of paying the contractor in cash he is to receive a certificate of work. This certificate will be redeemable in water right and can be applied in making payments to the government. The object of the plan is to get the landowners to construct portions of the system.

It is not the aim of the directors to let large contracts, but to get the farmers to build the laterals on their own lands if nothing else. The plan is not yet far enough developed to say if it is practical, but on the face of it there is the appearance that it may be made a success.

Better Prices for Horses and Mules

Horses and mules are still bringing a fair price in the Klamath country, which is known for its superior quality of stock. For some time the demand has not been strong and it was especially weak in California which has always used all of the surplus stock from this section. Buyers were slow in coming in and those who are located here made shipments only when there was a demand from some dealer in one of the California cities.

During the past few weeks a Mr. Jefferson, of Fresno, has been in this county and he has purchased two carloads of horses and mules paying about $70 a head for good stock. While this price is not as good as was paid last year there is again a gradually increasing demand for the horses and mules and the indications are that the market will be very good by fall.

While most of the people of this city have given up the idea of having rail connection during 1908, they look forward to the first train in the early part of the ensuing year. Every indication along the line points to the fact that it is the intention of the Southern Pacific to complete the road to Klamath Falls at the earliest possible date. Parties coming in from Dorris say that the rails are now laid to a point this side of the state line and not less than 700 men are at work on the roadbed between the edge of the marsh and the present terminus.

Construction trains are being run over the hill and heavy machinery is brought in by the cars so that it does away with the difficulties of transporting the heavy steam shovels and the other machinery necessary for doing rapid work.

It is evidently the aim of the engineers in charge of the work to complete the road to the navigable water so that stages and freight wagons can be abandoned and the boat can make direct connection with the trains. The only delay in the early completion of the road to this city is likely to occur in the marsh. The contractors have found the construction of the dike far more difficult than they had anticipated and this taken into consideration in connection with the fact that the machinery has been breaking down continuously has already caused a delay of several months and the dike is not more than half built.

Cleaning Crusade Is Bearing Fruit

The cleaning crusade inaugurated by the city council is already bearing fruit and City Marshal Low says that a number of people have cleaned up the streets and alleys adjoining their properties. He also states that there are a few whose places are a disgrace to the city as well as to the parties themselves that have not heeded the order of the mayor and the council and have made no move to remove some of the dirt and filth that surrounds their homes. Aside from being unsightly these places are a menace to the healthful condition of the city and the law will be enforced regardless of the fact upon whom the consequences may devolve.

The city authorities have decided that there is nothing in making idle threats and they are determined to have a cleaner Klamath Falls if the laws governing these matters will stand enforcement. It is a deplorable fact that those whose property needs cleaning most have paid no attention to the order of the council and in the main, that only those whose property was already in fairly good condition from a clean and sanitary standpoint have taken cognizance of the mandate coming from the council chamber. The city marshal is serving notice on all parties against whom complaints are lodged and it is the intention of the authorities to make a test case of the first one who refuses to clean up in accordance with the notice served.

Harriman Party Due Tomorrow

Advices received here today are to the effect that the Harriman party leaves Sacramento tonight and arrives at Dorris some time tomorrow morning. The party will come direct to this city arriving here at about noon. It has not yet been announced if Mr. Harriman will stop in this city or go directly to Pelican Bay.

WANT CASE ADVANCED.

Jackson County Prohibits Anxious for Supreme Court Decision.

Attorneys for the Jackson county anti-Saloon League appeared before the supreme court last week asking that the hearing of the appeal in the case of J. C. Hall vs. the Jackson county court, involving the legality of the recent prohibition election in this county, be advanced on the calendar. As will be remembered Judge Hanna issued an injunction restraining the county court from issuing the prohibition proclamation for the county following the election, at which the county voted "dry" by over 200 majority, the court holding that the election was void inasmuch as Medford was exempted under an act of the legislature from the effects of the local option law and could not be included legally in a call for a county vote on prohibition. This point will be passed upon by the supreme court. As the case is a matter involving the will of the people, it is expected to be advanced on the calendar and come to hearing and decision within a few months. State anti-Saloon League Attorney Rutherford and W. M. Colvig are the attorneys for the "drys."

Meanwhile the "wets" are continuing in the business of dispensing alcoholic liquid refreshments in Medford, Jacksonville and Gold Hill just as before the wishes of the people were registered in the matter at the June election.—Ashland Tidings.

Mrs. Jobb Now the Champion.

Mrs. H. M. Jobb, of San Francisco, has gone Dr. Ida Stone one better and while at Odessa the fore part of the week she succeeded in landing a thirteen and a half pound trout with a light rod and line. This is a few pounds heavier than the one caught by Mrs. Stone and consequently the ladies' championship now passes to Mrs. Jobb.

The contractors building the basement for the new White block are rushing matters and already have a portion of the frame work for the walls. It is quite evident that they will complete their portion of the building within three weeks, the time allotted in the contract.
